Security

Public Improvement Bonds are general obligations of the Commonwealth for the payment of which the good faith, credit and taxing power of the Commonwealth have been pledged. Their payment constitutes a first charge on all available revenues of the Commonwealth. Commonwealth law provides for a special sinking fund for the orderly payment of debt service on these bonds. The Commonwealth also has outstanding Tax and Revenue Anticipation Notes, payable solely from taxes and revenues in the General Fund collected after the issuance of these notes and prior to the end of the fiscal year for which they were issued. Neither the good faith, nor credit, nor taxing power of the Commonwealth is pledged for the payment of the debt service of these notes. The Commonwealth has a broad-based revenue structure. Leading sources of tax revenues are personal and business income taxes, sales and use taxes, excise taxes on consumption articles, property taxes, and Federal excise taxes on liquor exports that are returned to the Commonwealth Treasury. Puerto Rico also receives Federal grants for various government programs.

Functions

Exhibit B

The Commonwealth government assumes responsibility for police and fire protection, education, public health and welfare programs and economic development, and supervises municipal fiscal affairs. The Constitution of the Commonwealth provides that no additional direct debt may be issued or additional guarantees extended if the principal and interest payments for general obligation bonds and notes due in any fiscal year, together with any amount paid by the Commonwealth in respect to its guarantees in the preceding fiscal year, exceed 15 percent of the average annual general revenues of the Commonwealth for the two preceding years. This debt limitation has never been reached.

Bridge from Liquidity Plan projected cash balance and actual ending cash balance as of June 14, 2019

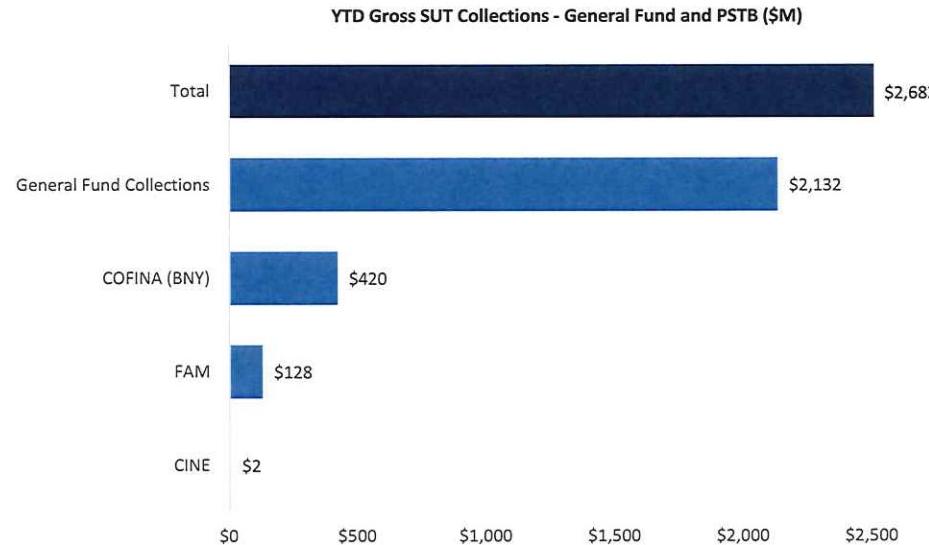

Cash Flow line item	Variance Bridge	Comments
Liquidity Plan Projected Cash Balance at 6/14/2019:	$ 4,776	1. COFINA Plan of Adjustment settlement amounts were received throughout the week ended February 15, 2019 in accordance with the approved Title III COFINA Adjustment Plan. This variance is mostly temporary, as these inflows were originally projected in June (pg. 12).
1 State Collections: COFINA Plan of Adjustment settlement	412
2 State Collections: All Other	1,001	2. State collections which primarily consist of the General Fund revenues (excluding SUT $412M in COFINA Plan of Adjustment settlement amounts) are ahead of plan.
3 Federal Fund Net Cash Flow Variance	530	3. Total difference between projected and actual Federal Fund net cash flows (FF inflows less FF outflows) is driven by temporary variances due to receiving funds for Medicaid, Nutritional Assistance, disaster-related expenditures, and other federal programs in advance of their subsequent disbursement.
4 PREPA Loan Repayment	147	4. YTD variance due to excess revenues collected by PREPA that were applied to the repayment of the $300M loan extended to PREPA by the Central Government. As of the date of this report, the full loan amount has been repaid.
5 PayGo Receipts	166
6 All Other	87	5. Paygo receipts reflect a $166M positive variance as public corporations and municipalities pay current and prior year past-due amounts (prior year debt not included in forecast). Also contributing to the positive variance, FY19 municipality receipts were not included in the budget and therefore not included in the Liquidity Plan.
Actual Cash Balance at 6/14/2019:	$ 7,119

Sales and Use Tax Collections Summary

Key Takeaways / Notes

- 1.) The proceeds from the Puerto Rico 10.5% SUT rate are allocated as follows: Of the 10.5%, 5.5% is deposited into a COFINA BNY Mellon account until the PSTBA cap is reached, and 4.5% is deposited into the General Fund. The remaining 0.5% is remitted to FAM. Before the COFINA Plan of Adjustment ("POA") became effective, the PSTBA cap for FY19 was $783 million. Now the cap for FY19 is $420 million. Once the PSTBA cap is met, the full 10% is deposited into the General Fund. The original PSTBA cap was reached in January 2019. The COFINA POA became effective in February 2019, after which, the excess FY19 funds deposited in the COFINA account was remitted to the General Fund along with $44 million in collections from prior years. This chart has been updated to better reflect the flow of funds when the COFINA POA became effective.

Tax Refunds / PayGo and Pensions Summary

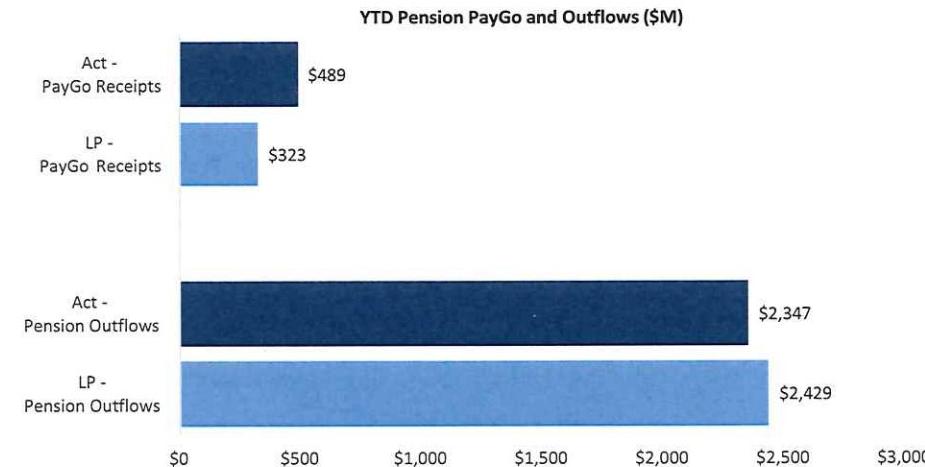

Key Takeaways / Notes : Tax Refunds

- 1.) YTD Employee Retention Credits were less than projected, though there is no net cash flow impact as all Employee Retention Credits issued were supported by federal fund inflows. Tax Refunds in excess of Liquidity Plan are due to (i) an increase in the rate of processing returns and issuing refunds when compared to the prior year; and (ii) refunds issued include returns from previous years not considered in the Liquidity Plan.

Key Takeaways / Notes : Pension PayGo

- 1.) The Liquidity Plan did not consider PayGo receipts from municipalities nor PayGo payments related to prior year debts from public corporations in its projections, which are the main drivers of the positive PayGo variance. YTD Pension Outflows variance is temporary, and is expected to reverse in subsequent weeks.

FBI Is Probing Corruption in Puerto Rico Government Contracts

The U.S. Federal Bureau of Investigation is probing potential corruption and favoritism in how Puerto Rico awarded some government contracts and arrests may be forthcoming, according to the bureau's special agent in charge on the island, Douglas Leff.

Speaking Thursday on local station Radio Isla, Leff said prosecutors would have final say as to when enough evidence had been gathered to justify arrests.

The remarks come during an extraordinary week in which Puerto Rican Treasury Secretary Raul Maldonado used a radio interview to disclose an "institutional mafia" within his own secretariat, revealed an FBI probe into the matter, and subsequently lost his job for failing to tell the governor about the problems before going to the press.

Then, just hours after Maldonado was asked to resign, his own son took to social media to call Governor Ricardo Rossello himself "corrupt," purporting to offer a firsthand account of the governor's efforts to alter a report on Hurricane Maria aid, an episode which Rossello vehemently denied had taken place.

Until now, the FBI hadn't spoken out on the matter. Leff confirmed the existence of widespread probe into improper awarding of government contracts at various levels of government, although he declined to specifically say if the Treasury was involved.

"It's fair to say that this is going to be a very busy summer for us," he said, adding that an announcement may be forthcoming as soon as this week.

The corruption drama and insult-slinging could hurt Puerto Rican leaders' efforts to restore confidence in their stewardship. The island commonwealth is navigating a record-setting bankruptcy and trying to ensure that federal aid money keeps flowing to recover from the devastation of Hurricane Maria.

Although our opinions on the basic financial statements are not affected, the amounts included in the schedule of the Commonwealth's proportionate share of the net pension liability of the cost-sharing multiple-employer pension plan and the schedule of employer's contributions for all pension plans contain material departures from U.S. generally accepted accounting principles because they do not include the pension amounts for certain entities and funds that did not apply the provisions of GASB Statement No. 68. We do not express an opinion or provide any assurance on the information.

Supplementary Information

Our audit was conducted for the purpose of forming opinions on the financial statements that collectively comprise the Commonwealth's basic financial statements. The combining and individual fund financial statements and schedules listed in the accompanying table of contents are presented for the purpose of additional analysis and are not a required part of the basic financial statements. After the passage of Hurricanes Irma and María, the economic situation of Puerto Rico, greatly affected by our colonial situation, became more acute. After 8 difficult months of recovery, investors are returning to put their trust in Puerto Rico. The road to the reconstruction of Puerto Rico includes the allocation of tens of billions of federal funds related to the recovery of hurricanes, money that will enter the economy, but temporarily. That is why we have to maximize opportunities and maximize our talents. The achievements mentioned above are further proof that we are going in the right direction to return to be an attractive jurisdiction to do business. Looking ahead, it is up to us to continue identifying more and better ways to attract economic activity.

With the arrival of funds for the reconstruction of Puerto Rico, the island is open to doing business and will continue promoting economic development measures that will once again place Puerto Rico as a connecting bridge between the Americas.

Puerto Rico has a long history and track record of granting incentives to stimulate investment and the creation of jobs in Puerto Rico. The use of various economic incentives has been a central part of the various economic development strategies that the island has been implemented through the last decades. To that end, over the years the Legislature has approved a multiplicity of laws that have defined the priorities that existed in Puerto Rico at that time, which are not necessarily the priorities or needs of Puerto Rico that we live today. The present economic and fiscal reality of Puerto Rico requires that the Government make a holistic review of all its incentives in order to bring coherence, structure and relevance to what of its fas is a series of strategies that do not necessarily have a common thread, and that in some cases they are incompatible or inconsistent with each other.

The economy of Puerto Rico has contracted in eleven of the past twelve years, and no significant changes are projected in this macroeconomic pattern, excluding the effects of Hurricane Maria and the recovery funds that Puerto Rico has to receive from the United States as a result. . There is no doubt that one of the tools available to the Government of Puerto Rico to counteract such economic contraction is to provide incentives to industries, both local and foreign, high performance and whose primary activity is focused on the export of goods or services, so that we incentive to bring new capital to Puerto Rico through said exports. Likewise, the consequent increase in public debt and the precariousness of the fiscal situation of Puerto Rico make it imperative that an assessment be made of the incentives that historically have been granted to determine which ones have the highest yield, and which produce a negative return. . Armed with this information, Puerto Rico will have the tools to redirect our limited resources to those activities that truly incentivize the economic growth of our economy, raise our level of commercial competitiveness, encourage exports and foreign investment in Puerto Rico, and create more Well-paid jobs for our people.

The Plan for Puerto Rico contemplates a change of vision in the management of the incentives that Puerto Rico uses to promote economic activity, so that we can temper and refocus our efforts to correct the problems that the strategies of the past have fostered. It is imperative for the economic development of Puerto Rico that we create a dynamic platform of economic stimulus that is consistent with the fiscal and economic reality of Puerto Rico. That is why, consistent with the Plan for Puerto Rico, we are creating an Incentive Code that promotes activities that contribute to the growth of the economy in Puerto Rico through investment, exports and job creation; responsibly expedite the application and approval process; and that it establishes uniform processes of regulation, measurement and continuous evaluation after the granting of incentives to guarantee compliance, transparency and the achievement of fiscal development objectives. As stated in the Plan for Puerto Rico, the use of incentives must yield a benefit not only for the incentivized entity, but also for Puerto Rico in general. It is important that the incentives result in tangible benefits to raise funds to the treasury, avoiding redundant activities, and promoting economic development in a broader, balanced and diversified manner. Contributory and economic incentives must be aimed at strategically and intelligently balancing the investment of external capital with the ecosystem of creation of local companies, to encourage the continuous transfer of knowledge, processes, innovation and technology between both.

In compliance with our programmatic commitment, the Department of Economic Development and Commerce of Puerto Rico (DDEC) undertook the task of analyzing the laws in force, the economic principles, the methodology and the results of all the economic incentives that have been granted in Puerto Rico, taking into consideration the most recent data available. The analysis shows that there are currently around 76 laws or programs that promote investment through the granting of incentives. Of the total, 58 stimulate economic activity and 18 serve social needs. According to the available data, it was determined that the programs identified as economic represent a total fiscal cost in excess of $ 7,462 million, of which eighty-one percent (81%) is considered an opportunity cost.¹

The fiscal costs attributable to the granting of economic development incentives are composed of:

- (a) Opportunity Cost - These are revenues that the Government stops receiving due to the preferential rates that are granted on the income subject to contributions and, therefore, the Government does not budget its cost.
- (b) Reimbursements and Subsidies - This is the cash that is granted for economic stimulus activities, such as the creation of jobs, investment in infrastructure and utility payments.
- (c) Tax Credit - Contribution by means of a loan to an Exempt Business or an Eligible Person to promote their business development, subject to the limits and terms established in this Code and the Incentive Regulations and which is granted through an incentive contract.
- (d) Special Deductions - These are the deductions included in the return that are granted to investments in machinery, Renewable Energy or other related operational expenses, according to the law.
- (e) Municipal Exemptions - These are the exclusions of property tax payments, municipal patents and the Sales and Use Tax (SUT) that correspond to the municipalities, according to the law.

Although the experience, in general terms, has been positive in the granting of incentives, to advance the role of economic development more effectively, the ¹ It should be noted that the study carried out by the DDEC did not include the analysis of Return on Investment of the incentives aimed at addressing social causes since its purpose is not economic performance. Such incentives include those that promote the construction of housing of social interest, art and culture, among others.

Government understands that the incentive program can be maximized by consolidating all the different types of sector incentives that our existing laws of economic incentives provide. We have given ourselves the task of rethinking Puerto Rico's system of economic incentives, and redesigning it so that our incentives are in line with our needs, take into account our limitations, and maximize our potential. The result of this effort is this Incentive Code, through which for the first time in our history, Puerto Rico now has a document that breaks down all the economic stimulus programs available in Puerto Rico. Quite the contrary, to the arbitrary efforts that have been used in the past to grant incentives, the Plan for Puerto Rico, taking into account the results that yielded a series of rigorous analysis on the effectiveness of said incentives. In addition, this exhaustive evaluation regarding the effectiveness and performance of the economic incentives will be done continuously. For these purposes, it is imperative that our new Incentive Code contain an agile and pragmatic paradigm to support the continuous improvement of the economic development strategy, and the ability to identify emerging risks and opportunities.

That is why we propose a Code of Incentives that rationalizes and consolidates the dozens of decrees, incentives, subsidies, reimbursements, and tax or financial benefits that Puerto Rico offers, and that we temper or limit that offer to only those that we can prove factually and economically that are going to have a favorable macroeconomic impact on the Island. The Incentives Code has the purpose of promoting the environment, the opportunities and the adequate tools to promote the sustainable economic development of Puerto Rico. This new code will establish the legal and administrative framework that will govern the request, evaluation, concession or denial of incentives by the Government of Puerto Rico; will achieve stability, certainty and credibility for all types of private investment in Puerto Rico and will serve as a promotional tool for investment in the Island. In virtue of this, this Code grants incentives that: "should not be interpreted as the old tax exemptions which were privileges, for which reason it was beneficial to interpret them restrictively. On the contrary, [...] they must be interpreted [liberally] in a manner consonant with their creative purpose." Textile Dye Works, Inc. v. Secretary of the Treasury, 95 DPR 708, 713 (1968). See also Pfizer Pharm. V. Mun. de Vega Baja, 182 DPR 267, 286 (2011). In addition, this Code maintains the guiding principle that the incentives set forth here: "are not a grace, in the old sense of the phrase, that the Government of Puerto Rico confers but is an instrument that Puerto Rico uses to promote the industry and productive investment." Id. At the same time, this Legislature is interested in making it clear that the tax exemptions granted in this Code of Incentives are considered to constitute a contract between the Government of Puerto Rico, the Exempt Business and its shareholders, partners or owners, for which reason, they apply the general rules regarding contracts. And, therefore, "on these applies the principle of the autonomy of the will of the parties, who can establish the covenants, clauses and conditions that they deem convenient, provided they are not contrary to laws, morals, or public order". Pfizer Pharm. V. Mun. VegaBaja, supra, at page 283. In this regard, the Code of Incentives will be valuable and useful to organizations like *Invest Puerto RicoInc.*and the Puerto Rico Destination Marketing

Organization (DMO), who will be in charge, among others, to attract capital to achieve economic development.

The evaluation of incentives that was carried out while this Incentive Code was prepared, as well as future evaluations that will continue to be carried out in the future, were carried out and will be carried out under the guiding principle that the most important for such consideration will be the economic fundamentals proposed or defined by the Government and the activities and industries that must be encouraged to ensure the growth of the economy of Puerto Rico. The Incentives Code will allow the Government to achieve the primary goal of promulgating development initiatives by creating favorable conditions to foster competitiveness and innovation and support emerging industries and technologies that foster sustainability, with incentives that favor training and operational improvement , sustainable economic development and the creation of jobs to temper them to the fiscal reality of Puerto Rico and the global competitive environment. Also the Incentive Code will facilitate the process to institute uniform rules to request, process and grant incentives while discarding government investment in certain activities that are not competitive or productive.

The Incentive Code will allow the types of incentives that are now granted to be standardized, and the risky incentives that historically have resulted in losses or that have adversely impacted the economy of Puerto Rico to be minimized. The Code of Incentives recognizes that it is essential to promote the effective and continuous measurement of the costs and benefits of the incentives that are granted, in order to determine the cash that is invested vis-à-vis what the Treasury receives. Therefore, the new Incentive Code will also incorporate provisions to measure the return on investment (ROI) and maintain up-to-date data on such performance by economic sector.

The Incentive Code will facilitate the analysis of our incentives to determine the desirability of maintaining, modifying or discontinuing any incentive that proves to be obsolete, or consequently, that has resulted in a negative performance. The analysis will also allow to determine which incentives can provide a positive performance based on concrete data, if government resources should be redirected to other industries to maximize performance and stimulate productivity, and will even identify the need to create new incentive mechanisms. New incentives will be evaluated and approved through mechanisms and processes established in the regulation adopted by the DDEC, based on complete analyzes that allow informed decisions. This structure will allow processes to be improved, incentives to be analyzed based on ROI, and economic priorities, and the desirability of continuing to grant the incentive to be determined within a reasonable term.

In agreement with the above, an incentive evaluation model will also be created, according to the needs of the economy of Puerto Rico, to measure the effectiveness of the program based on the annual reports submitted by the beneficiaries. The analysis of the reports will allow the stimulus programs to be improved, and will ensure that the incentives are allocated and used to maximize the economic impact on the Island. Likewise, the evaluation will facilitate the monitoring of compliance with the terms and conditions of the incentives that are granted, including the measurement of risk and return on the investment of such stimuli, related to the public policy of economic development. Another of the changes contemplated in the Incentive Code is the incorporation of rigorous safeguards to impose sanctions defined for non-compliance with any of the terms and conditions of the incentive grant agreement, including the duty to submit annual reports.

As an important element to ensure strictness in the application of standards and transparency, a single office will be designated to supervise aspects related to compliance. For these purposes, the Tax Exemption Office, now the Incentive Office, will become part of the DDEC and assume other responsibilities in accordance with the new Incentive Code.

The new Incentive Code will be divided into sections based on the particular characteristics to serve the various sectors of the economy (manufacturing, exports, visitor economy, creative industries, finance, investment and insurance, infrastructure, and agro-industries) and to promote strategic activities. It is for such reasons that it is proposed that those funds that have been awarded as incentives in categories or subcategories of negative performance are reassigned, as far as possible, to positive performance activities within the same category.

The new Incentive Code amends eligibility and benefits granted prospectively for various economic activities. The companies that are operating according to the terms of decrees granted will not be affected. Some incentives will remain unchanged, as is the case of exporting companies or that are key suppliers to exporters, foreign investors and incentives to the cruise industry, while others have been eliminated, uniformed or amended to produce a better return on public investment.

The Code of Incentives also proposes that all laws and social programs be incorporated to ensure that they are included in the supervision process (oversight) to make the use of these subsidies transparent and to measure their impact on the Port. Rich.

The Incentive Code defines and imposes the responsibility to oversee the incentive program and to be accountable by requiring DDEC to publish annual reports with data on the expenses and benefits of all incentive programs. The report will facilitate the evaluation of incentives to determine which programs should be modified, expanded or rethought to maximize their impact on the economy, and aligned with the strategic development plan. The annual report will also improve the visibility of the Government of Puerto Rico regarding the use of its fiscal resources.

Another of the Government's priorities in adopting a new Incentive Code is to facilitate the transition so that most of the process is automated and focused on a system that allows multiple users, such as proponents, service providers, agencies and other parties, interested parties, have access to public information and can conduct transactions efficiently.

The Code of Incentives also formally incorporates the participation of the private sector in the process by creating the figures of the Qualified Promoter and the Certified Professional, who will assist the Government in attracting companies to the Island and facilitating the application and application processes. fulfillment. Finally, it is imperative that, in order to achieve the purposes of the new Incentive Code, an adequate transition is contemplated with precise change management guidelines for each government agency that administers the particular law and for beneficiaries, present and future.

Some changes to our economic incentives in the Incentive Code include the organization of exemptions by segments and sectors of industries, so that several incentive laws can be grouped within the same category as long as such laws provide incentives for those sectors, as follows:

1. Individuals
2. Exportation (Services and Goods)
3. Financial and Insurance Services
4. Visitor Economy
5. Manufacturing, including the Research and Development component
6. Infrastructure
7. Agriculture
8. Creative Industries
9. Entrepreneurship
10. Other

Tax rates are also harmonized as much as possible across industries , to provide a series of contributory benefits that as a general rule apply to all sectors, providing a simple guide on what is offered and to whom. Additional benefits are established for small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs) and for Exempt Businesses established in Vieques and Culebra.

In the agricultural area, we incorporate the participation of the Secretary of Agriculture in the granting of agricultural incentives. Thealso remain original benefits of wage incentive and bonus to agricultural workers.

Also, in recognition of a recent and emerging global industry, merchandise (commodities), currencies, and any digital assets based on blockchain technology are added, as eligible for the incentive applicable to capital gains of individuals. Resident Investors (former Law 22).

The Incentive Code also incorporates the mechanism of contributory credits which will be distributed by the Secretary of the DDEC to maximize the performance of the incentives subject to parameters of sound administration established by regulation. In no way does this Code limit the power of the State to grant tax credits as it was respected in Section 208 (b) (1) of the Federal PROMESA Law. Likewise, this Legislature reserves the right to establish additional controls, to those willing here, in the use of the tax credits that impact the General Fund.

The term of the tax exemption decrees is also standardized so that everyone has a term of 15 years with a possible renegotiation for an additional term of 15 years. Likewise, the use of decrees for all tax exemption benefits is included, including Law 185 of Private Capital Funds, among others.

The power to grant decrees and the regulation of the Code of Incentives is centralized, providing that tax and tax matters will be worked in conjunction with the Department of the Treasury. All changes established by this Incentive Code are prospective and do not affect companies or individuals with decrees, credits, or incentives granted prior to their approval.

On the other hand, in compliance with the commitment expressed in the Plan for Puerto Rico, the Incentive Code includes the My Future Account. Through this new program, this administration will open an account with one thousand dollars ($1,000) to each Kindergarten student in the public education system. This account will allow children to accumulate savings that they will receive once they graduate from the fourth year. These funds could be used, among others, to start college, or start a business. This is a mechanism to continue fighting against social inequality, school dropout and foster academic performance. In addition, Cuenta Mi Futuro is consistent with the Fiscal Plan certified by the Fiscal Supervision Board under the Federal PROMESA Law, which includes a clear reference to develop initiatives to promote education that represents the future of the Island and investment with the biggest positive return for it.

It also includes a program to repay student loans to doctors, veterinarians, dentists and scientific researchers in the health area to remain in Puerto Rico after completing their training. This initiative seeks to promote that these health professionals remain on the island after completing their training. For this purpose, the DDEC may grant a subsidy for the student loans incurred by these doctors, subject to their remaining in Puerto Rico and establishing their practice here. With this measure we also try to reduce the exodus of doctors and specialists who have been seeing Puerto Rico a few years ago.

We approved this Incentive Code with the conviction that it will improve the economic competitiveness of Puerto Rico. On the one hand, this Code will create a simple, agile and efficient process, focused on the client, and will generate the trust of the population and the private sector through the transparency of the processes around the incentives that are granted. At the same time, we make viable the continuous review of the incentives that are provided to identify those incentives that are not cost-effective and strengthen those for which it is proven that they have an impact and produce return of investment to the treasury. Finally, with the tools provided by this Code, this administration will continue to boost the economy and attract private capital for the island. We continue to work without pause to position Puerto Rico worldwide as an open jurisdiction to do business.

Although there are many obstacles that we still have to overcome on the road to final recovery, there is hope and optimism in our people. The road to economic recovery is laid out. This administration will continue to be committed to Puerto Rico to direct it towards the definitive rebound of our economy. That is our north and that is what we are heading for. We are confident that with the actions we have taken and will take, Puerto Rico will rise, with more strength than ever.

Gov. Rosselló Signs the Puerto Rico Incentives Code

Newsroom, The Weekly Journal Jul 1, 2019 Updated Jul 1, 2019

(Carlos Rivera Giusti)

Governor of Puerto Rico Ricardo Rosselló converted into Act 60-2019 the Puerto Rico Incentives Code, which will establish a new transparent and efficient process for granting and overseeing all the incentives granted by the Government.

Exhibit M

“By signing this law, we fulfill the programmatic commitment of my administration, after a long debate in search of creating an efficient project to improve the way of doing business in Puerto Rico. Additionally, we integrated new incentives to encourage the retention of our professionals and promote the development of emerging industries,” said Rosselló.

The governor also stated that “since the beginning we committed ourselves in the Plan for Puerto Rico to grouping all the incentives in a code to simplify our offer for investment and job creation. Today, this is a reality.”

The new incentives include the incorporation of the Student Savings Plan Program, known as Cuenta Mi Futuro (My Future Account), where the Government will establish an account and make a contribution of $1,000 to each kindergarten student in the public system, which will be invested so that they are received once the students graduate from high school.

Another significant incentive included is the repayment of student loans to doctors, dentists, veterinarians, and scientific researchers in the area of health, with the commitment to remain on the Island for seven consecutive years.

It has also been extended until September 30 of this year the deadline for doctors residing in Puerto Rico to request the decree under the Puerto Rico Incentives for the Retention and Return of Medical Professionals Act; and until June 30 of 2020 for doctors who are outside of Puerto Rico to return to practice in the Island so that they may benefit from the preferential rates established in this law.

For his part, the secretary of the Puerto Rico Department of Economic Development and Commerce (DEDC), Manuel A. Laboy, said that “as part of the process for the implementation of the Code of Incentives, the Office of Incentives for Business in Puerto Rico and the creation of the Portal for Incentives Granting have been established, in order to uniform, centralize, standardize, and streamline the processes related to the application and approval of decrees, cash grants, tax credits, subsidies, and other incentives. In this innovative way we give agility and transparency to the processes.”

The public official explained that the changes established in the Code of Incentives are prospective and do not affect companies or individuals with decrees, credits, or existing incentives.

He also stressed that, in the process of drafting and evaluating this project, various sectors and guilds participated in the discussion, where they presented their needs and recommendations.

On the other hand, Rosselló stressed that in this new version of the Code of Incentives the percentage of municipal exemptions is decreased, in order to bring more funds to the municipalities.

Regarding the film industry, the tax credit is maintained for productions of up to 40 percent of expenditure, but an additional 15 percent is added subject to compliance with several parameters established in the law; in addition to 20 percent in payments to non-resident productions.

In addition, as part of promoting the establishment of specialized industries, an incentive is provided to attract professionals of difficult recruitment; and the incentives and benefits of agricultural workers remain intact.

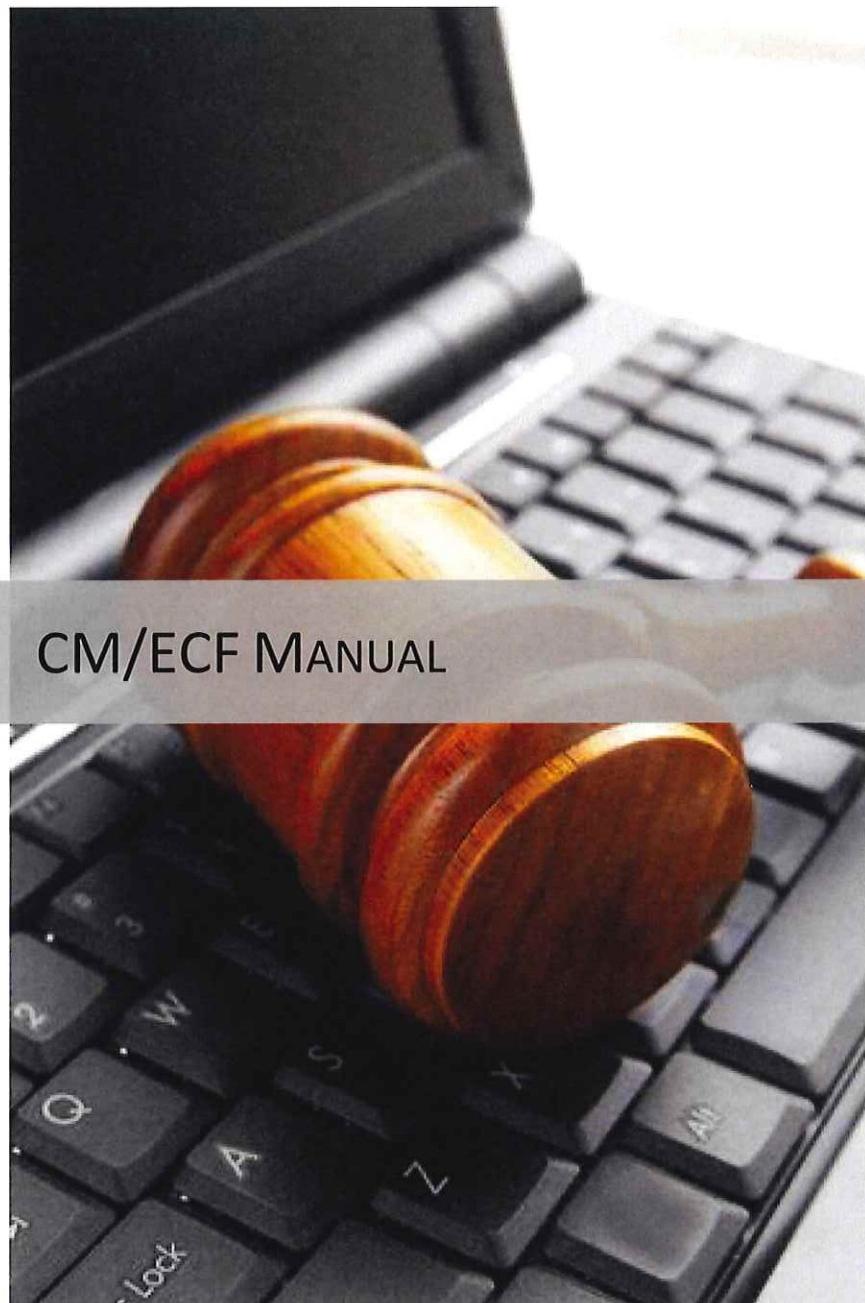

Likewise, the cryptocurrency and the blockchain are included as eligible for the incentive of capital gains of individual resident investors.

Lastly, the Code encourages the video game industry, eSports, and fantasy leagues, a growing industry that generates billions of dollars worldwide.

Alternatively, the BANK may, at the CUSTOMER's expense, resign and deliver the balance of the Accounts to a court of competent jurisdiction, upon which all obligation of the BANK under this Agreement

(g) The CUSTOMER acknowledges that the BANK is not acting under this Agreement as manager or investment adviser and has no obligation to explain or warn of risks related to the Securities. CUSTOMER agrees that it is exclusively responsible for the selection, acquisition or disposal of securities.

7. Fees. The CUSTOMER agrees to pay the BANK, as compensation for its services, fees based on the Custodian Fee Schedule in effect from time to time. (See attached Exhibit B Custodian Fee Schedule). The BANK is hereby authorized to debit the Accounts or any other account of the customer with the BANK, for the amount due for fees and any out-of-pocket expenses the BANK incurs that arise out of or in connection with this Agreement. Central Accounting

Dear Sirs:

This Circular Letter is issued for the purpose of issuing the instructions to be followed by the Special Paying Officers (OPE's) at the close of the 2017-18 budget year.

SPECIFIC PROVISIONS

1. As of May 26, 2018, acquisitions of goods and services can not be made. In addition, advance payments of funds to the OPEs will not be authorized. Should an emergency arise that requires the acquisition of goods and services or advance funds, the agencies must request authorization in writing explaining the reasons for it. They will send the request to the Central Accounting Area of this Department.

2. The OPEs and their Assistants will take steps to settle the accounts, expenses and commitments pending payment before June 15, 2018.

3. Officials authorized to incur commitments or obligations must certify to the OPEs of their agencies, before June 1, 2018, all invoices pending settlement corresponding to goods and services received during the 2017-18 budget year.

4. It is necessary that the OPEs inform the Department of the invoices to be paid after the close of the budget year. For these purposes, they will prepare Model SC 753, List of Invoices to Be Paid for Goods and Services Received and Contracts for Professional and Consultant Services to Pay in June (Schedule 1), with information on goods and services received up to 30 June 2018. In preparing this Model, they must group information by allocation, expense account to be paid and economic sector. In the DESCRIPTION space, they will indicate a brief description of the expense.

5. All OPEs with funds available, whether state or federal, must return them no later than June 15, 2018. They may only retain the amount corresponding to the payment of the billed commitments, charges for banking services, payments for services professionals and consultants and the payrolls of the month of June, in those cases that pay payroll. The money to be withheld must be equal to the balance of the accounts payable, as reported in Model SC 753. They will prepare it in excell format and submit it in original and a compact disc. They will have until July 13, 2018 to make these payments. To retain these funds, the OPEs will not have to originate receipts affecting the accounting of June 2018. The agencies will not be able to use the funds retained to pay debts of the new fiscal year (2019). In addition, they must prepare and submit on July 2, 2018 the Model SC 753.1, Accounts Summary to Pay at June 30, 2018 (Schedule II). In it, accounts payable will be grouped, within each fund, by object of expenditure. For this, they will use the information indicated in the columns: EXPENDITURE ACCOUNT, FUND and SE of the Model SC 753. The information to be used in the Model SC 753.1 will be the allocation accounts whose authority to spend is limited to a specific year (2017-18) and those that have been authorized without said limitation within the Funds 200, 300, 400, 500 and 700. The classification of the accounts by creditor class must be correct,

6. The OPE will have until July 13, 2018 to deliver the Current Account and Liquidation corresponding to the month of June 2018.

7. In professional and consultative services contracts, invoices for June must be received by the agencies no later than July 13, 2018.

8. The OPEs that have unencumbered funds as of June 15, 2018 will make the return of the same, as indicated below:

b. The OPE will issue a check in the name of the Secretary of the Treasury, dated June 15, 2018, for the total amount of the balances to be returned.

c. They will deposit the checks in the Popular Bank of Puerto Rico to the credit of the current account of the Secretary of the Treasury (account # 030-049458). The deposit will be made no later than 2:30 pm on June 15, 2018. In addition, they will send to the Treasury Department a copy of the deposit slip in which they must identify with the phrase, Refund Balances - Fiscal Year 2017-18 .

d. Once the deposit is made, they will prepare Models SC 745, Proof of Remittance and SC 714, Control Sheet PRIFAS dated June 15, 2018, accompanied by the original of the Deposit Sheet of the Banco Popular de Puerto Rico.

and. To adjust the advance, prepare Model SC 710, Proof of Jornal, with transaction code JP, with a debit to account F6110 and a credit to account A1067.
